SUSPENDS LICENSES OF TWO AUTOISTS

Automobile accidents that happened through trying to pass a car from the rear when another vehicle was approaching from the opposite direction cost two automobile drivers suspension of their licenses before Deputy Commissioner MacDonald, who heard a number of automobile cases in New London on Tuesday. He declared that this practice of passing another car was one of the most flagrant violations of the automobile law.

Louis H. Daniels of New London, who was concerned in an accident at Ocean and Glenwood avenues on Sept. 23, last admitted that he was at fault. He was fined $75 and costs in the police court on a charge of reckless driving. Mr. MacDonald suspended his license for 30 days.

Edmund Demira of Goodyear admitted that he was responsible for a collision near Danielson on Sept. 13, when he ran into a machine driven by a man named Taylor. Demira testified that he was on his way to Danielson to see Deputy Inspector Young to take out an operator's license when the accident occurred. Mr. MacDonald said to him that he was evidently driving without a license and he admitted that this was so. Mr. MacDonald told him to apply for a license 30 days from today and he could have one.

Frank P. Rafferty of Williamstown testified that he could not attend the hearing, and Mr. MacDonald is to take his testimony in Hartford on a later date in connection with an accident with Joseph Dedard. This accident occurred Aug. 12 at Park and Pleasant street in Williamstown. The damage was to Dedard's car.

Harry B. Haskell of Putnam, had his license suspended for 90 days. The accident occurred when he attempted to pass a car with traffic approaching in the opposite direction. This occurred on the Providence turnpike near Putnam on Monday.

Sunday, Nov. 18, and the car which he struck was driven by W. C. Kendall. Paul H. Zahn, driver of a truck for the Peck, McWilliams Co. of Norwich, testified that he was trying to get on the right side of the highway when a bus driven by Mike Dumas of Norwich came along and struck his truck at the rear. Zahn admitted that he had been concerned in one previous accident. Dumas was not present to tell his version and Commissioner MacDonald continued the case.

Herbert F. Colt of Mystic escaped with no suspension of license. His car was in collision with a car driven by John L. Beau, as the cars passed each other on the road to Mystic. Each claimed the other was at fault in cutting in too close. The commissioner let them both off and the matter is one for a civil suit for damages if the parties so desire.

The case against Frederick C. Clarke of Jewett City was continued because there were no other witnesses present. Clarke had an accident at Norwich Town after dark in which two persons were injured and sent to the hospital.

Daniel Spencer at Saybrook was represented by an attorney. Spencer testified that he was driving toward Saybrook from Hartford and was behind a baker's wagon. He said that a machine driven by Mrs. Kennedy approached from the opposite direction, massed the baker's wagon and skidded against his left front wheel, causing him to lose the grip on the steering wheel and turn his car over. Mrs. Kennedy testified that she was crowded away ever and that Spencer struck her instead.

The man in the baker's wagon, Mander testified that he saw the two cars and both of them were on their right side of the road and he was excited and his horse so excited that he could not say which was to blame. As a suit for damages has been instituted in this case, Commissioner MacDonald said he would continue the hearing for one month.

Thousands of ruined heads of hair are striking testimony to the injury done by the heated curling iron. The continued use of such instrument invariably means dull, dry, shriveled hair, with split, broken ends.

COUNTY Y. M. C. A. IN FIRST ANNUAL

from Wesleyan university visited Colchester and Uncasville. In these communities the college men liked with the boys and attended their social gatherings. The social events of the Saturday were followed by a Sunday religious programme. The boys were led to see that college men in many instances are strong, Christian men.

As an outgrowth of the work started in Fitchville, a poultry club, enrolling 11 boys has been formed. This is evidence of the vocational work that is being promoted.

Six ex-service men have been awarded scholarships by the educational committee. The scholarships cover a wide range of courses, and in value total $142.

More than 40 different gatherings have been addressed in the interest of work with boys during the past year. In many cases the secretaries took charge of complete church services.

During July, 1919, the county committee of this county, in conjunction with those of Hartford and Middletown, conducted a successful camp for boys on Lake Terminus, Marlboro, Conn.; 26 boys and two adult leaders were enrolled from 10 communities of this county. From all the counties there was a total of 107 campers. This will be a regular feature of the work. A camp run by the committee is not only a vacation but an ideal arrangement for character building in the summer.

Following the hearing of the reports there was an inspirational address by Hugh D. Maydole, international secretary of the county work department. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Charles Smith, pastor of the Baltic M. E. church.

The towns represented and the number of representatives from each were as follows:

A GAUGE FOR FLOWERS.

("Over a thousand tons of flowers now come from the Scilly Isles each year.")—Daily Paper.)

Give me a meadowful of cowslips.
Give me a field of daffodils.
Give me a primrose bank, a wood of bluebells.

A sheet of daisies on the hills.
Give me my flowers in countless masses.
Give them in millions or in ones.

Give them in handfuls, armfuls, cups, or casks.
But do not think of flowers in tons.

Think of a ton of coal, gold, sugar, Or semolina, if you please.
But never, never bid me try to purchase.

A pound of wild anemones.
A hundredweight of burnet-roses.
An ounce of first white violas.

Unreckoned things, till merchant weights and measures
A price upon the priceless gems.
—Tomfool, in Daily Herald (London).

DAFFODILS.

When I went out at peer of dawn,
And crossed the dewy fields,
The sun arose and smiled to me
A golden daffodil.

And in the highest pitch of dawn,
As I passed over the plain,
The sun was there to give to me
A daffodil again.

And as I passed beside the gate,
Happy at toll's reprieve,
I saw between the quiet trees
A daffodil aye.

And ere I drifted off that night
Down placid slumber streams,
The round moon rose and flung to me
A daffodil for dreams.
